

NATIONAL FOREST FOR WISCONSIN IS DEEMED CERTAIN

Committee Gives Favorable Report and Bill is Ready for Senate Calendar

Washington—If an appropriation follows the $40,000,000 forest purchase authorization as provided in the McNary-Woodruff bill, the Forest Service is ready to proceed with negotiations for a national forest in Wisconsin, it was said at the Forest Service today.

Meanwhile, the McNary-Woodruff bill, on which a favorable report was ordered by the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry last week, was ready for the Senate calendar today. A total of 2,500,000 acres is to be purchased in properly distributed units in the lake states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. The bill has been amended to provide that the land shall be purchased and the program completed in eight years instead of ten as formerly provided.

MUST HAVE PERMISSION
Forest Service officials today explained that the program in Wisconsin had proceeded only to the extent that 100,000 acres had been selected in Forest and Oneida counties. The Wisconsin statute requires local approval of any purchase and to this the Forest Service has no objection, it was said. At a matter of fact the Federal government does not desire to purchase land where local sentiment disapproves the purchase.

The Forest Service, it was pointed out, has not yet asked the National Forest Reservation Commission to approve a "purchase unit" in Wisconsin. "Purchase units" are definitely bounded sections in which the Forest Service desires to purchase land. The National Forest Reservation Commission is made up of Secretary of War, Secretary of Interior, Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Commerce, Secretary of Navy, Senator Overman of North Carolina, Representative Hawley of Oregon and Representative McKeen of Tennessee.

CONTINUED PROGRAM
Once a purchase unit is approved by the Commission, the Forest Service begins obtaining option on land, submitting the titles to the Department of Justice for approval.

In addition to the 2,500,000 acres to be purchased in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, the program is to continue the original program of acquisition of forest land in the White and Appalachian Mountains on an enlarged scale, which will add 3,000,000 acres during the next eight years. A system of southern forests, aggregating approximately 2,500,000 acres in the pine producing regions of the south, is also provided. It is expected that $1,000,000 will be made available immediately and another $2,000,000 on July first. Hereafter between $500,000 and $5,000,000 would be available yearly.

STATE LOOKING TO STUDENTS' COMFORT

Finds Much Work Necessary in Order to Conform to Modern Trends

Madison—(AP)—The sole concern of the state department of public instruction is not the curricula of the hundreds of schools over which it exercises jurisdiction, it was revealed today, as much attention is given to the comfort and convenience of the pupils.

The department is continually making surveys of the school buildings and equipment for various cities, and finds that in most instances these surveys and their findings have been accepted by the school authorities and the provisions for the improvement carried out.

In an article written for the forthcoming issue of the State Teachers Association Journal of Education, the department says that due to increased school attendance, especially in the high schools, many communities find it necessary to provide additional buildings for the school systems or reorganize their systems to conform to modern trends.

In order to form definite conclusions and to be sure of final results, much study of the local situation is usually required, the statement says. "This takes much time and effort, as well as experience, which often is not available."

"In the past few years the department has been called to help in matters of building programs and extensions, school finances, school reorganization and problems of administration."

The following cities have been surveyed under these arrangements by the department:

Appleton, Antigo, Eau Claire, New London, Green Bay, Oconto, North Fond du Lac, Rice Lake, Sturgeon Bay, Neenah, South Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Falls, Sun Prairie, Walworth, Park Falls, and Wisconsin Rapids.

Ashland has just had the preliminary work done for a school building and financial survey. The department has also made a building survey of four counties, entailing the examination and scoring of 35 buildings, and the building scores of every high school in the state are on file.

Usually the department can make three or four surveys a year.

Tax Bachelors! Good Thing, Bachelors And Maids Agree

Press dispatches have announced that the Italian government under Mussolini has levied taxes on bachelors which during the coming year will amount to more than two million dollars. The money collected from that source is turned over to a national association for maternity and infants.

Although all of that is happening in sunny Italy, the taxation has spread to France and may extend to this country. Authorities agree that the chances are good, the United States being endowed with a goodly number of lawbreakers.

All of which brings us to Appleton and the bachelor situation in this city. Appleton has its share of bachelors. Some are bachelors through choice and others through the choice of the female sex. Most of them have given up hope of ever being married—if you want to call it hope—and others stuck to the adage that "while there's life, there's hope."

DEALERS EXPECTING HIGHER SHOE PRICES

General Increase in Leather Market Expected to Be Felt Here in Spring

A general increase in the price of shoes which has been predicted because of the rapidly rising leather market has not yet affected prices here. The increase probably will be noted most on spring sales, local men say, giving three reasons advanced as the cause of the spurt in leather prices.

The most important reason, it is said, is that the tanning industry is now emerging from the overexpansion of the war and post-war periods. For more than five years, tanners say, their industry was in the dumps because of being burdened with too much leather. Cutting production to the rock bottom, the demand for leather has finally absorbed this extra supply and has reached the stage of a shortage.

In addition to heavy domestic supply, the Wisconsin tanners have been forced to compete with heavy shipments from European countries—the Balkan states, Germany, Spain, France and Russia.

Domestic demands from these countries following the war was poor and shoes were a luxury. Now that these countries are in a better industrial position, they are buying more of their domestic production, reducing the exports to the United States.

The third important reason advanced is the increased use of leather. An enormous supply is going to the automobile industry with leather being used in garment production and in athletic goods.

Calf leather is quoted at 30 cents a foot, an increase of from 20 to 70 per cent as compared to six months ago. Side leather shows an advance of 100 per cent or more; sole leather, 50 to 90 per cent higher with a shortage of hides.

REVIVE AGITATION FOR QUICK REPAIRS ON SHAKY VIADUCT

Council Will Be Asked to Make Lawrence-st Bridge Safe for Heavy Traffic

Agitation for the repair of the present Lawrence-st bridge or construction of a new one has reached the point where it is not unlikely that the matter will be taken before the city council for action at an early date.

Knowledge that the bridge is unsafe has been common for several years. At a meeting of the council on Nov. 16, Alderman George Richard made a motion that the city engineer be instructed to conduct an investigation of the bridge and plans for its repair be made at the present time. The understructure of the bridge was looked over several years ago and a tonnage limit of three tons was set.

This limit, however, is considered by many to be far too high, some estimating that the weight of the concrete flooring, placed on a wooden flooring with understructure meant only for horse and buggy traffic, was such that the bridge was overloaded even when free of traffic of any kind.

Buildings on the west side of the bridge are not easily accessible for the fire department because it has been an order for several years that no fire apparatus go over the bridge unless absolutely necessary, and then at a low rate of speed. A detour of two blocks on the east side of the city is necessary if the department is called to extinguish a fire in territory adjacent to the west side of the structure.

There is a fund of approximately $10,000 available in the city's 1928 budget for repairing bridges and several aldermen have suggested that the money be used for that purpose.

Action on either repairing or replacing the bridge will be taken by the council following the submission of City Engineer Schindler's report which will probably be presented at the first meeting in February.

VANDERHEYDEN NOT FOR COMBINATION

Alderman Wants to Act Free Handed in Matter of Municipal Airport

Combining the city council committee with the body formed for that purpose by the chamber of commerce may not occur even though the chamber body has voted to include the city committee, according to one member of the council body. Alderman W. H. Vanderheyden has expressed himself as being against the combination and the desires of the other two members, Alderman Gustafson and Thompson, will be known after a meeting to be held the first of next week.

The motion to combine the two committees was made by Alderman Diderich of the chamber of commerce at a meeting Thursday afternoon and adopted after a warning by another member that the combination might not result satisfactorily because of the danger of bringing politics into the project.

Alderman Diderich, who has spoken against the airport on several occasions, shares the opinion of Mayor A. C. Rule that the city cannot spend $50,000 that is not provided in the budget. Information at the chamber meeting tended to show that not more than $40,000 would be necessary and that $1,000 was closer to the actual figure.

In opposing the combination, Alderman Vanderheyden said he thought the act would hinder the unprejudiced work of the committee of which he is a member and that he did not believe it had been approved with the intention of combining with any other body. "There is little doubt that other civic bodies will be forming airport committees in the near future and if we were made members of all of the committees, we would have more than we could handle," he said.

"Electric Power!—A Consumer-Owned Industry"

Says Haley Fiske
President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

"There can be no doubt that light and power distribution is a most important element in our life, in the community, in the neighborhood, in the household. The ownership of the electric light and power companies is now in the hands of more than 2,000,000 direct investors in public utility stocks, and indirectly, in the hands of millions more of bank depositors and holders of life insurance policies through their ownership of public utility bonds. This is people's ownership under public regulation."

SINCE Mr. Fiske's statement was made, the number of investors in electric power companies has grown to over three million. It is estimated that during 1926, nearly four hundred thousand customers bought over three million shares in the electric power companies serving them. All told, over thirteen and a half million shares of stock have been purchased by the customers of these companies. These owners are found in every walk of life. Two companies alone report nearly fourteen thousand customer stockholders, representing 269 separate occupations. The movement toward customer ownership of industry finds its largest expression in the electric power companies because of the high sense of responsibility developed by these companies in their dealings with the public.

Operated under the American principle of individual initiative, and directed by a personnel of tested integrity and public-mindedness, these companies have so definitely identified themselves with the interests of the public, that the structure of America's prosperity and progress rests to a large degree upon their service.

America's unequalled level of comfort and prosperity, made possible through cheap, abundant power, developed under the American principle of individual initiative, is the best of reasons why that principle should be preserved and perpetuated.

6 PASSENGERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE WHEN TRAIN AND BUS COLLIDE

Driver Cut and Interurban Slightly Damaged in Collision at Neenah

Neenah—Six passengers narrowly escaped injury Saturday night when the Oshkosh-Neenah interurban bus leaving here at 8:15 was struck by a Soo line switch train at the main-street crossing. The bus was badly damaged and Otto Kohls, driver of the bus, had his hand cut by glass.

Mr. Kohls claimed that he stopped for the crossing, a compulsory rule with his company, to ascertain whether or not the crossing was clear and not seeing a train, he started across. On the main track, approaching from the west yards, was the switch engine pushing several flat cars ahead of a freight car, the latter obstructing the view of the engine to the driver. There were no flagmen on the crossing nor were there any switchmen ahead of the train, Mr. Kohls claimed.

The train was moving slowly but after colliding with the bus, shoved it across the crossing for a distance of six feet. The coupling of the flat car caught the fender of the bus and tore it off. The passengers were taken on their way in the bus which was not badly damaged.

It is also rumored that early airmail service may be established to the northern part of the state through Neenah and it is possible that Neenah will become a terminal distributing point for the north, at least until other northern cities are able to establish airport landings. Mr. Held, manager and owner of the field, is endeavoring to find a way to finance improvements so that passenger and express service in addition to the mail service can be inaugurated at an early date.

Smith Hears Pleas For Mercy

Their tears apparently moved Governor Smith but little when Mrs. Margaret C. Logan (3), Judd Gray's sister, Mrs. Margaret C. Gray (2), his mother, and Mrs. Josephine Brown (3), Mrs. Ruth Snyder's mother, attended the Albany hearing at which last appeals for executive clemency for the doomed slayers were heard. Governor Smith indicated that he would not interfere with the executions, scheduled for January 12.

"I am not concerned with this psychosis business," replied Governor Smith to the assertions of Edgar F. Hazleton, counsel for Ruth Snyder, that his client was in "the twilight zone" between sanity and insanity when she and Judd Gray slew Albert Snyder. The governor and the chief appellant for executive clemency for the condemned pair are conspicuous in this general view of the Albany hearing.

water. But, in spite of the backing, the submarine struck us at about this time. As far as I could tell, it was struck forward of the conning tower. At the time of the collision I could see the periscope a few feet above the conning tower.

"We hit with a terrible crash, giving the feeling of running up on the beach over rocks. There was a terrible grinding and ripping of metal and the destroyer seemed to come up out of the water.

"I immediately ordered the engines stopped. The submarine was not visible on the starboard side then. As I went over to the port side somebody told me the submarine had just gone down in the wake of the port gun. I had seen it sliding under the Pauley listed at an angle of from 20 to 30 degrees."

WATCHED FOR SURVIVORS

Commander Baylies said that at the time of the collision the general alarm was given and the crew ordered to the stations for "abandon ship." A boat was lowered, and an anchor buoy with a weight attached was thrown overboard to mark the spot as well as possible. An urgent "H. C." signal was hoisted to call out a boat from shore coast guard station.

The Pauley remained at the scene several minutes. No survivors were seen. The destroyer's lifeboat search in the vicinity for survivors or marks of the identity of the submarine, as the witness said he had not known which vessel he had struck. Finally the leak in the bow of the Pauley forced him to head for the harbor. The Pauley was sinking by the head an inch at a time and there was danger that a bulkhead might give way.

WANT SENATE INQUIRY

Washington—(AP)—Persistent demand for investigation of the S-4 disaster by a senate committee, instead of by a special commission to be appointed by the president, was made Monday before the senate naval committee by leading Democrats of that body.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, the ranking minority member, and Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, served notice that if the committee approved the resolution in the form the house adopted it last Saturday, they would take their fight to the floor of the senate.

After a heated debate which lasted for more than an hour, the committee deferred action on the resolution until Thursday at which time Senator King, Democrat, Utah, who is not a member, plans to appear to urge a senate inquiry not alone into the S-4 sinking, but also in other naval disasters as well as into the condition of the whole naval establishment.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice since 1832, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in all directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have

LAW AND INTOXICATION

Lord Chief Justice Hewart of England declares that if a person is so completely drunk as to be incapable of forming a criminal intent he cannot be held responsible for deliberate crime. That probably means he cannot be prosecuted for first degree murder, intentional manslaughter and the like, and that juries may consider complete drunkenness as a mitigation of any offense.

A great to-do has been made about the chief justice's declaration, but as a matter of fact his opinion is entirely in accord with recent precedent. It is many years since courts have upheld the doctrine that "what hurt or ill soever a drunkard doeth, his drunkenness doth aggravate it" or even the doctrine that a drunkard is always as responsible for his acts as though he intended them. But the automobile may force courts to bring these doctrines back.

Law is made for the benefit, order and safety of society. Where as in some countries until quite recently seven or more out of every thousand of the population have been arrested for drunkenness annually—meaning that many times that proportion have been intoxicated—society naturally has taken some of the blame to itself and partially exonerated the drunkard who committed crime, prosecuting him only where there was reason to believe his power to choose between right and wrong was not affected. But with the advent of machinery, growth of great industrial cities and general use of swift-running, dangerous motor vehicles one country after another has taken steps to remove public approval or acquiescence from the drink traffic, thereby issuing a public warning to drinkers. And along with the warning of prohibition has come a swing of public sentiment toward placing full responsibility upon the man who, knowing that he may become a killer if intoxicated, proceeds nevertheless to the satisfaction of his appetite.

Already in the United States it is a greater police offense to drive recklessly while drunk than to drive recklessly while sober. The drunken man at the wheel may be absolved of "intent." He may think he is driving carefully. But he is actually more dangerous than the sober but reckless individual who knows he is ignoring the law. The drunkard's eyes under the partial paralysis of intoxication do not accommodate; near objects appear further away; and his general nerve response, the factor that determines power to avoid accidents, is slowed up.

Danger is the controlling factor. When Lord Chief Justice Hewart upholds the doctrine of lack of criminal intent he ignores danger and draws a hairline which every English jury will interpret differently. It might even be construed that a man who wishes to commit murder with comparative impunity may do so with an automobile or a gun by first taking precaution to fortify himself with enough spirits, and behave with sufficient evidence of intoxication, to impress a jury. Society sooner or later will force a sterner court view of offenses committed by drunkards. No man's life is safe today if it does not. There is a vast difference between society's point of view when the only danger from the occasional drunkard is that he may run amuck in his home or afoot, and its point of view when he may run amuck in a high-powered car weighing two tons and traveling at a racing clip. American courts are quite generally taking note of this distinction. They have been ahead of British courts in this connection for years.

REVOLT OF THE LADIES

We have been hearing a great deal about the ladies breaking their shackles and rushing to a new-found freedom. It has been told to us so often that this is what "going on" that most of us perhaps have come to take it for granted.

But four women in Brooklyn the other night discussed just this very thing—Mrs. Will Durant, Elisabeth Marbury, Fannie Hurst and Texas Guinan. And from their remarks we gather that there hasn't been any revolt at all.

Miss Marbury said "I don't know what you mean by revolt. Why should there be any such thing? The women have 75 per cent of the good anyway. If there is any revolt it ought to come from the other sex." The others echoed Miss Marbury's assertions.

The simple truth is that American women haven't much to revolt from.

YOUNG BLOOD NEEDED

Young blood is the hope of the world. Without it every human now known would be doomed to oblivion at the end of the lifespan of their present adherents. Yet, until comparatively recent times, and to a great extent even today, especially in the professions, young blood has had to wage a long and bitter fight for every opportunity sought. Aggressiveness and tenaciousness, however, have born fruit, and we have today what is known as the age of the greatest opportunity for youth. The young doctor, the young lawyer, the young minister meet less opposition than of yore, also the young professor. But there is another contributing cause for this change, the way has been made so difficult that young men had become reluctant to enter these fields, and turned to business where the opposition was less determined. The professions found themselves in the situation of ever increasing difficulty in replenishing their ranks. The only alternative was to encourage youth.

There is borne out by the admission of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, that ten years ago he was worried because there were no apparent candidates to fill the vacancies in the faculty bound to occur from the retirement of those men growing old in the service of the university, but that today there has been recruited a group of young people of promise, fine training and high purpose who, in ten or twenty years, will fulfill the traditions of the present staff.

There are certain immutable laws. To survive, life must constantly be replenished with new blood, with new vigor; to disregard this law is suicidal.

PANNING THE MONROE DOCTRINE

As the Pan-American conference approaches, there develops world-wide interest in it. The Spanish world, both old and new, is particularly interested. Here is a comment from the newspaper, El Sol, of Madrid, which may jar Americans:

The return to the League of Nations, and to the spirit of the League, embodies a refusal to make of America a closed field and to prolong the Monroe doctrine. The Monroe doctrine may have had historical legitimacy when it asserted America's solidarity in defense of the American people's independence, but would not have it if it attempted to separate America from the rest of the world. The Monroe doctrine had its hour. Today, however, when Europe does not threaten America, it is nothing more than a mask to cover Yankee supremacy.

A few years ago, when the Pan American union was stronger and more promising than it is today, it began to look as if the Monroe doctrine might evolve into a Pan-American doctrine. As such, it would be upheld by the authority of the United States and all our Latin-American neighbors together, with Uncle Sam as guide, philosopher and friend of the others but making no effort to dictate.

That has appeared to many Americans the ideal way, henceforth to maintain the protective features of the Monroe policy and ward off Old world aggression of any kind. But the growing suspicion and in some cases active unfriendliness of Latin neighbors has made that impracticable.

There may be some plain talk on the subject at the Havana conference. One thing that will be eagerly awaited by the other members will be an expected pronouncement on the Monroe doctrine from President Coolidge.

HALF A TRILLION—COUNT IT!

A recent report of the Bureau of Internal Revenue indicated that 117,000,000 persons in the country had a total income of nearly $90,000,000,000 in 1926. These figures mean something.

The report shows an increase of about $27,000,000,000 in income since 1921—more than 43 per cent.

A total of $62,000,000,000 income was recorded in 1921. This increased $3,000,000,000 in 1922, went up $7,000,000,000 more in 1923, and so on to 1926 when exactly $89,682,000,000 was earned.

The figures show that today the national wealth of the United States must be slightly above $500,000,000,000. That's half a trillion. Count it before you predict any "hard times" in this country.

These are pleasant evening for the man who bought his wife a radio and his son an electric train for Christmas.

THE INFECTIOUS TYPE OF ARTHRITISM
Medical authorities at present favor the classification of all kinds of joint trouble that formerly were regarded under the misleading name of "rheumatism" in three types, and the first type is infectious arthritis (joint inflammation) or arthritis. Infectious means, not that the disease is "catching," but just that it is caused by the invasion of the joint tissues by germs.

Tuberculous arthritis, gonorrheal arthritis, syphilitic arthritis, are three well recognized kinds of joint infection. But we usually think of the commonest kind of joint infection when we hear the term infectious arthritis, and that is the very painful and dangerous "inflammatory rheumatism" or "rheumatic fever," occurring most frequently in childhood or juvenescence.

Readers may recall that we pointed out here a while ago how Drs. Dick (discoverers of the Dick test for scarlet fever and a serum for the immunization) have shown, first, that germs (hemolytic streptococci) isolated from early acute cases of scarlet fever would produce in human volunteers subjects inoculated an attack of sore throat without any rash. These same noted medical researchers have also demonstrated that the same germ that produces scarlet fever in one case may produce just a sore throat in another case and erysipelas in a third case. It is not yet positively proved that the same type of germ will produce infectious arthritis, too, but medical authorities assume that it may and base diagnosis and treatment of infectious arthritis on this premise.

At least we know that in the familiar cases of acute infectious arthritis ("inflammatory rheumatism," "rheumatic fever") developing as a complication of scarlet fever, sore throat, quinsy, scarlet fever, and the like, the notorious streptococcus is at work. We know, too, that in any of the perhaps mild illnesses with such involvement of joints may occur, there is a certain probability that the lining of the heart, especially in the region of the valves, may be the seat of lodgment selected by the streptococcus, and this is the very good reason why the best physicians insist on absolute bed rest or at least avoidance of activity when a young person has a sore throat of any description. The doctor wishes to save the patient's heart from damage; and secondarily he hopes, by insuring rest during the illness, to render less likely the painful complication of arthritis.

This is the best information we can give the layman concerning the prevention of acute infectious arthritis. If the reader wants to go farther in the study of prevention, let him turn back to the articles we have printed here from time to time on the prevention of croup, tonsillitis, sore throat, scarlet fever, quinsy, are all Common Respiratory Infections. Remember what the Drs. Dick have proved about the versatility of the germs of sore throat, and remember the conversational spray range of the germs which assures you his cry is "Just a little cold." Infectious arthritis, I said above, is not catching in a specific sense, but just the same a person with only the makings (a sore throat) may talk you into it if you tarry for a time less than five feet from his mouth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Callus
What can be done for a callus on the sole of the foot, right in the middle of the ball of the foot? (N. J.)

Answer—First soften it by painting daily for a week or longer with the familiar corn remedy—grains of salicylic acid dissolved in half an ounce of flexible collodion. When the callus softens and comes away, cut from boiler's felt or several layers of soft leather a beveled pad about the shape and size of the callus and wear this strapped on the shoe by a shoemaker. As a rule the callus is due to sagging of the transverse arch of the foot, from narrow tight shoes. It is therefore a signal telling you to be more sensible about your footwear.

Teachers Must Teach What They're Taught to Teach

I am a school teacher and I should like to have your advice about teaching the children the care of their teeth, such as brushing twice a day, and so forth. I should also like to have your suggestions about teaching them about "colds" so called. I have omitted this chapter in our physiology textbook because I didn't believe all the bunk it gave. (V. W.)

Answer—I advise you to teach the children only what you are taught to teach "em about such things. That is the only safe course for a young teacher before they take the bunk out of the school textbooks on physiology, hygiene and health. You see, there are some powerful business interests that want the bunk kept in the school courses. These business interests work through politics, and the politicians run the education system.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A GENIUS AND A FOOL

The translation into English of a new life of Balzac calls attention once more to the remarkable paradox represented in the literary and personal life of that great French genius. As a novelist he "belongs to the ages," in Secretary Stanton's somewhat grandiose phrase; as a human being he was as great a fool as is to be met with in a week's reading.

Balzac a genius before whom kings and emperors and millionaires might have heard with awe, had a consuming passion to be "in society." He wrote novels that will live for centuries for no other reason, apparently, than to get money, with which to entertain lavishly. He headed noblemen who were not worthy to lace his shoes but before whom the great novelist trembled with awe because they had a title and money. He was almost ready to sell his soul merely to get a smile from such noble ruffians.

During the greater part of his literary life he was in the power of the pawnbrokers and money lenders most of the time. Not because he did not make enough with his novels to live comfortably, but because he hungered for an occasional smile from a nobleman or so he threw money away by the shoeful in order to stay out of jail for debt and at the same time added greater debts on top of the old, merely to keep up his reputation among noble nobodies that he was a good entertainer. He sacrificed his health and his precious genius to desires that might be understandable in a male flapper, but that, according to all conceptions in such things, are wholly out of place with a genius.

We get the impression from most of his biographers that he would gladly have traded his genius for even a minor place among the nobility of France. He was born a commoner and all his life he hankered after the ephemeral rank. He invented names for himself that would give him the impression that he was from noble lineage and he expended all sorts of pains in getting up a coat of arms for himself that merely made him ridiculous in the eyes of sensible people.

Think of genius, the gift of the gods, being placed in the balance against the shadow of nobility! Balzac had a perfect right, by reason of his genius, to consider himself above any king or emperor or nobleman of his time. Such a feeling would not at all have been presumptuous; it would have been mere self-respect and the world would not have condemned him for it. Shakespeare had a perfect right to consider himself far greater than Queen Elizabeth.

The spectacle of a genius undervaluing his gift and hankering after something of minor importance is not as uncommon as might be supposed. It is merely found in an exaggerated form in Balzac. We are told that the poet Grey, whose "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" has stood the test of the centuries, gave far more attention during most of his life to the cut of his clothes than to his gift as a poet. In these days a poet was not in very high standing socially and Grey was more anxious to be considered a gentleman in the social sense of that word than a poet.

Sir Walter Scott is another example that comes to mind readily. He was a genius too, not as great as Balzac but authentically a genius. Yet in nearly all essentials he did the same thing Balzac did. He acquired a great estate that was a financial burden on his back, he entertained lavishly, wasting huge sums on friends whose only recommendation was that they had a title, and what is worse he wasted his precious time on them, doing his writing early in the morning and late at night when they were in bed. He wanted to be considered a gentleman, and he tried to hide the fact that he a writer and a genius.

Great geniuses have often been great fools at the same time. The fact is as interesting as it is inexplicable.

The Question Box

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE IS PUZZLE TO SCIENCE
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

It is generally known that many diseases appear constantly in certain families. Physicians believe that this is not hereditary but that the person inherits a certain type of body structure which makes him especially susceptible to the condition concerned.

High blood pressure has been investigated in many laboratories, but thus far no definite cause has been found for it. All sorts of theories have been held and have been investigated, but the results have been general negative.

There are persons who assert that the disease is due to eating too much meat, to the taking of alcohol, to the use of tobacco, or salt, and indeed that worry plays a considerable part in its onset. Some say that excesses of all kinds are primarily responsible. On the other hand, there does not appear to be any scientific evidence to indicate the exact proportion to which any single excess may be responsible.

There are already accumulating in medical literature numerous records of entire families who suffered with hypertension and who die of brain hemorrhage, chronic inflammation of the kidneys, or other conditions associated with high blood pressure. Investigation made by Mortensen led him to the conviction that high blood pressure is definitely hereditary, and that there are associated with the peculiar type of body structure certain changes in the manner with which the body digests protein substances.

These facts should not cause anyone to despair of the usefulness of good hygiene. Perhaps it will not add greatly to the length of life of a person short lived family. It will, however, son who is a member of a notoriously make him feel a good deal better during most of the short period that he may have to live.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — Manhattan snap-shots—the stage-door man on 43rd Street, who was an officer of high rank in the German army... the hotel bus-boy who was the "youngest hero" of the late war... and the house manager on Broadway who was a member of royalty before one of those almost forgotten revolutions...

A youth slumped on a subway bench... Although there is a driving storm just outside he has no overcoat... His shirt has no collar... His hat is pulled well over his eyes and he sits hunched upon the subway going into the back of the subway caverns, indifferent to the coming and going of trains and to the ebbing and flowing of crowds... He hasn't reached the point of legging—yet! When night comes on and melancholy gets a tighter hold on him, he may try to get a few dimes. You'll find one in almost any subway station these winter days.

The piles of dead and dying Christmas trees... The young man who turns out to be Cissie Loftus' son... Ah well, we're getting old... New York drug stores give out few calendars this year... And it's been years since we saw one of those good, old-fashioned medical almanacs... Are they still printed?...

The new crop of "Village" poets... Two of whom sell bonds on Wall Street... Wood-peddlers gathering their stock in trade from the city streets... The cats that follow the new subway workhouses... It seems that some laborers still eat dinner pails and leave them scraps... One worker tells me of a cat that followed him through five different neighborhoods... Mae West, who went to the workhouse last year on putting on a naughty play... Now she's looking over night club sites...

Many are the methods adopted by New York's sneak thieves for quick "get-away." The latest is the "stick-pin snipper." He operates in crowded subways, looking for men who have flashy stickpins in their neckties. He works with a very sharp razor blade or a pair of scissors. Pretending to jostle his prospective victim, he clutches for a coat lapel. With a terrorous sweep of the blade he gets the pin and is off at the next station. Six of these were reported to police in a single day.

And there's the fellow who stands at the subway station and, waiting for a moment just before a train starts, reaches in the window and snatches the fur scarfs from women passengers.

So great is the number of shoplifters that a recent big "basement sale" nearly half of the crowd was furnished by a private detective agency.

Most of the big New York stores instruct their telephone operators to pass the time of day with whomsoever may call.

If a call is made early in the day there is a greeting of "good morning." Functionally at 10:30 this changes to "good forenoon." Exactly at 12, the greeting is "good afternoon." Again 4 o'clock it becomes "good evening." But only the radio uses "good night" (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

leather. The fins and bones and other waste parts of the fish are utilized for fish meal and fertilizer. The spawn is very heavily salted and sent to France for sardine bait, or when used fresh, it is prepared by special processes and sold as caviare. The eye-balls are preserved by the jeweler for making strings of beads, and the scales of the codfish skin are used for imitation of pearl beads.

Last, but not least, one of the most important parts of the codfish body is the liver, from which cod liver oil is made.

Q. How many chickens are there on the farms of this country? L. M.

A. According to the census of 1925 there were 409,290,649.

Q. In what States are children under 16 permitted to work from 9 to 11 hours a day? W. E. M.

A. It is not unlawful in Florida, Idaho, Georgia, Michigan, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota and Texas.

Q. What nationality is Clara Bow? E. M. E.

A. She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and is of English, Scotch, and French descent.

COUNTY WILL GET $86,834 AS STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS

Report Shows There Are 19,735 Persons of School Age in County

Outagamie county schools will receive $86,834 aid from the state in 1928 or $1.44 for each person residing in the county of school age according to a report received by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen from John Callahan, state superintendent of schools. The total number of children of school age in the county for the year ending June 30, 1927, according to the report, was 19,735. In 1926 there were 19,549 children of school age in the county. Aid received last year totaled $82,043 or $4.23 for each child.

The school money for 1928 will be paid to the county in two installments, according to a letter received by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, from Mr. Callahan. He explains that the two payment plan was adopted on account of a change in the tax laws. Two thirds of the apportionment will be paid on the second Monday in March and the balance will be paid on July 20.

According to the report received by Mr. Hantschel the state will distribute $3,552,755.45 in school aid to all the counties in 1928. Of this total $2,451,519.94 will be paid in March and $1,099,235.51 will be distributed in July.

Other counties near Outagamie will receive the following amounts: Brown, $94,890.40; Calumet, $25,536; Winnebago, $92,150; Manitowish, $78,003.20; Fond du Lac, $78,121.20.

The city of Appleton will receive $29,255.60 state school aid in 1928 as compared with $27,515.75 for 1927 when there were 6,475 persons of school age. Kaukauna has 2,132 school age persons and will receive $9,603.20 as compared with $9,010 when there were 2,120 persons of school age.

Following is a list of several other towns and villages, the number of persons of school age in 1927 and 1928 and the amounts they will receive: Little Chute, 1928, 807 pupils, $3,550.80, 1927, 828 pupils, $3,519; Kimberly, 1928, 705 pupils, $3,092.20, 1927, 718 pupils, $3,061.50; Hortonville, 1928, 215 pupils, $948, 1927, 197 pupils, $837.25; Grand Chute, 1928, 940 pupils, $4,980, 1927, 814 pupils, $3,559.50.

DIRECTORS MUST WEAR FOREST GREEN OUTFIT

Madison—(P)—The forest-green uniforms in which Wisconsin's conservation wardens will appear with the first signs of spring, will be worn not only by the wardens, but by director of conservation and his assistants as well.

The outfits are to be very swank, from the description of them, consisting of a pleated Norfolk jacket of the style worn by bus drivers and aviators, with army-style breeches set off by leather puttees.

To the objection of some that a uniform will make it difficult for wardens to apprehend violators of the conservation laws, the department replies that should occasion arise for sleuthing work, plain garments may be worn.

COLLEGE EXPELS 4 DRINKING STUDENTS

One Young Man Nearly Dies from Drinking Poisonous Liquor at "Party"

One Lawrence college student was near death and two more became quite ill late Saturday night from drinking a large quantity of poisonous liquor in a student's room in Brokaw hall, student dormitory. The three young men and a fourth who also took part in the "party" have been expelled from the college, it was said Monday.

One of the boys was so seriously affected by the liquor that it was feared he could not live. When he was taken to the hospital about 1 o'clock Sunday morning his heart beats were so faint they could scarcely be detected but he rallied rapidly under drastic treatment and was able to leave the institution Sunday. His companions were not so badly affected.

College authorities learned in an investigation that the liquor had been acquired by an upper classman at the college, not a resident of Brokaw hall, and was taken into the dormitory Saturday night. The other three boys, it is said, did not know about the liquor until it was produced in their room and they proceeded to have a "party." It is said the liquor was not obtained in Appleton.

before. This decline was general for the entire Lake Superior region, the total production being 51,691,000 tons in 1927 and 51,322,776 the year before. Shipments last year were valued at $130,453,000 or $20,000,000 less than in 1926.

A similar drop was noted for the country at large. The amount mined in 1927 was $1,778,600 tons as compared with 67,623,000 tons for 1926. The northeastern states and a few of the southern states were the only ones to report gains.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

This is the eighth Monday Auction Bridge article written to meet the demands of the novice. The series is prepared for those totally unfamiliar with the game of Bridge and is offered with the idea that it will enable them to acquire quickly and easily all that is necessary for them to know concerning the fundamentals of the game. Those who follow the series are advised to keep the articles for ready reference, preserving each chapter so that it may be revised when necessary.

THE GAME OF AUCTION BRIDGE Chapter 8.

When the first card is led by the adversary on the left of the Declarer, the Dummy's hand is spread face up on the table and it becomes the duty of the Declarer to play Dummy by putting a card from it and placing it in the middle of the table. The Dummy has nothing to say about this play or about any lead or play that the Declarer may make from the Dummy hand. Dummy has no right to suggest any lead or play from his hand and, if he do, the adversaries have the option of demanding that the Declarer make such lead or play, or that he refrain from doing so.

The Declarer, when playing from the Dummy must follow suit if the Dummy have a card of the suit that is led; and this rule applies to all plays by all players. The leader's trick may lead any card he has in his hand; but each of the other three players—when playing to that trick—must play a card of the suit led if he have one. If he have not a card of the suit led, he may play any card he chooses; and, if this is a trump, can trump the card or not on the trick or not as he sees fit. The play goes around in turn from left to right "clockwise," the player who wins a trick leads to the next. When a player does not follow suit, and when he does not follow suit with a card of the suit led in his hand, he is said to "revoke." That, however, is necessarily a revoke because a player is given time in which to correct a revoke and save himself from a revoke.

Of course Dummy should not revoke because there are three players with whom he can revoke and correct his error. But it may happen in some cases that a player, in order to save a play, will revoke the opportunity to correct his error and save himself the severe penalty imposed by a revoke. Either adversary of the Declarer is allowed to ask his partner and the Dummy, provided he has not intentionally looked at an unplayed card or any player—like the partner to ask a Declarer whether a revoke card in his hand of the suit that he is revoking. The restriction which prevents a Dummy, who is not a player, has seen an unplayed card, a hand except his own, from asking the question which may save him a revoke is because the "rulebook" of Dummy who looks over the cards of one or both adversaries is a nuisance and, the "rulebook" of Dummy who looks around the table and watches the partner play is worse. In either event he may obtain information that induces him to ask the question when, without it, he might hesitate to do so. When a Dummy who has intentionally seen a card played by Declarer or other adversary asks Declarer whether he has any or a suit he is revoking, Declarer have a card of the suit, and is held for any revoke resulting therefrom.

There are many common expressions used in asking this important question. Some players merely say "Note partner's" or "No more partner's" others are more specific saying "No more Hearts partner's" or "No clubs partner's." The Laws do not specify the exact words to be used. (Next Monday, the revoke and its penalties will be described.)

Jean Patou Refuses To Prophesy New Hat Modes
Says He Must Know New Fashions In Dresses First

BY JEAN PATOU

PARIS — I am often asked why I undertook the creation of hats. It so frequently occurred that I was consulted as to the choice of a hat to be worn with one of my models that I decided it would be more simple to create an accompanying hat for each of the ensembles that called for one.

The art of the modiste is vastly different from that of the couturier. It is more directly influenced by the trend of events, which would seem to indicate a more frivolous disposition, or rather, perhaps, a more facile enthusiasm.

LA MODE IS ILLOGICAL

The great illogicalness in la mode is that it shows its winter hat collection in June and its summer models in December. This has always seemed to me too great a concession to foreign buyers.

In my opinion a hat should remain an accessory, the complementary article and not the structure of an ensemble, according to which every detail must be modeled.

I do not believe that modistes will think me ungracious when I go further and say that the dress is the prime element of any ensemble. My hats are not shown two months ahead of my collections, but together with my new models. In this way they are created at the same time and in the same atmosphere.

IN THIRD OR FOURTH PLACE
When I present a creation accompanied by a hat, it seems to be the third or fourth piece of the ensemble, thought just as necessary as the skirt or the sweater. That is the first object I work on.

I cannot prophesy what the new modes will be. I must first of all know what new fashions dresses will bring. All I can say is that my hats will harmonize with my dresses. I shall always show a simple hat to accompany a sports outfit, whereas the hat to accompany an afternoon dress will be as intricate in design as the dress itself.

My endeavor always is to present harmonious ensembles.

Jean Patou's principle that the hat should always remain a complement to the ensemble is applied as faithfully to his outdoor costumes as to his stylish daytime, afternoon and evening frocks. Each of these winter sport creations is topped by matching; pom-pom ed caps—and the effect is heightened by harmonizing mufflers.

THE ANSWERS

1. Yes.
2. The main consideration is to show your appreciation immediately. The method is immaterial, nowadays.
3. Many people do but the handwritten note is still the proper one.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE night was dark in the cave, and the flashlight beam of Jack Frost, the one who sent us here, was a good old scout. We seek adventure every day. We love to work. We love to play. Down here we're going to have some fun. We haven't any doubt.

Then Clowdy broke right in and said, "Oh, look, I see a light ahead. There must be someone down here, or we're coming near to a cave. Perhaps we've walked so far around that we've returned to level ground." Up to the light the bunch all ran for all that they were worth.

Right soon they found an open space. They saw a man, and on his face he had a very pleasant smile. He jumped up with a bound. "Well, greetings, Tinymites," said he. "I'm glad to have you here with me. We'll be good friends, for I'm the man who rules the underground."

HAS MODERN WOMAN MOTHER LOVE?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE last one three years ago—other these days.

Now we have a new one. You have probably heard the old long tale of the gay inmates that begot. This is the day they give babies away with a half-a-pound of tea.

The last word in foolishness: Now in the good new year 1928 it's not so foolish. You need not buy tea to be presented with a fine roaching baby boy from new whose mother has no use for him.

Kind of person who really wants a baby, and he will do the love, care, and training that his own father and mother could not possibly give him.

Now I suppose it's up to us to go on the mourners' bench again for a lost world. Girl robbers, girl murderers, girl who marry and then give their babies away.

"This" say the head-waggers is your modern woman. Look at her. So we look at her—her features spread large all over the front page. And what are we supposed to make of it all? If these were common ordinary everyday occurrences would their things be set up in pictures for the public to behold in all the news sheets? They are. They are, thank goodness, unusual enough to shock us, but not enough to make women. They are merely abnormal women.

BEAUTY HOW AND WHY

USE MILD CHEMICAL STAIN REMOVERS

Ann Allys

BY ANN ALYSIS

THE woman who does her own housework and more particularly her own cooking, is often deeply chagrined by stained hands. Perhaps there is a card party in the evening and she wonders how she is to get her hands in good shape before that time.

She has already bathed and brushed them with hot water and soap, and still they look soiled. She has tried cold cream with no appreciable effect and as her hands are tender, she dare not try scouring them. Here chemistry steps in to aid her.

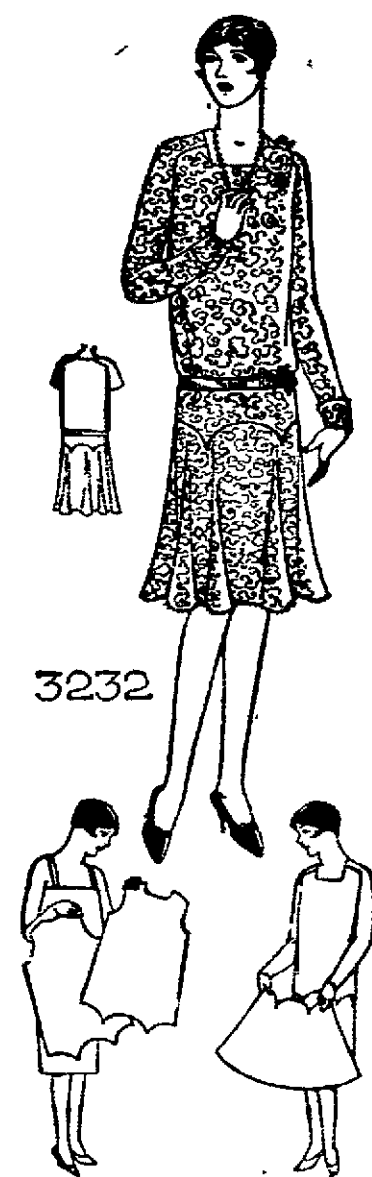

If the discolorations are the ordinary ones caused by handling vegetables in preparing food, the probabilities are that the stains have become more deeply set by the alkali in the soap used in washing the hands, and that by using an acid which neutralizes and helps dissolve the coloring matter, she may be able to entirely remove it. But there are acids and acids. Some of the powerful acids will remove any stain very quickly—and the cuticle and flesh as well.

So it is well to choose for this purpose one of the milder acids, such as citric, tartaric or acetic. Most of the stain removers on the market are made of one or the other of these, though sometimes oxalic acid is used, particularly where ink is the source of the offending stain.

Perhaps she knows of lemon juice as a trusty stain remover. Lemon juice is citric acid in almost pure form. Tartaric acid is formed from grape juice, and household vinegar is acetic acid diluted, colored and flavored. Never use any of them unless well diluted.

It All Depends On The Veil And Wearer

THE VAGARIES OF THE VEIL

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN

Before she left for the office with Bob that Friday morning, Cherry made no verbal apology to Faith for her atrocious behavior of the night before, but she kissed her sister goodbye with unaccustomed warmth, her arms clinging tightly for a moment, and when Faith went to Cherry's room to bathe and dress the baby she again found that task already performed.

Cherry had not slept particularly well upon her sins. Faith wondered, tenderly and pityingly, what strange battle between the good and evil in her unaccountable little sister's nature had been waged in that pretty bedroom during the long hours after Cherry had fled from the living room the night before, humiliated in the eyes of the two men whose devotion to herself she had high-handedly taken for granted.

All that was good and unselfish—however small that might be—had been instantly called to the surface of Cherry's volatile nature by that naive confession of Rhoda's. For today, at least, Cherry would remain true to the vow she had visibly registered not to try to fan into a new flame the attraction which Nils had felt for her upon sight, and which she believed had almost helplessly quenched by her badly staged little melodrama to excite his jealousy and to call his chivalry to her defense. Poor little rudderless Cherry!

A few minutes later, after Hope had been given her nine o'clock bottle and was drowsing off to sleep, Faith went to her own room and found another evidence of Cherry's repentance—the three glorious pale green orchids which Nils had brought her the night before. The delicate blossoms were thrust into a slim yellow vase, beneath which was a note in Cherry's scrawling: "Faith, darling: Wear these to Mrs. Harrison's bridge party tonight. Of course, I'll stay home with Hope. Your best Cherry."

Faith had forgotten about the Harrison's bridge party, an invitation to which she and Bob had accepted nearly a week before. Frowningly she wondered if it were too late for her to beg off, for she felt that Cherry in a chastened repentant mood might be humoring her for a long, confidential talk with her, but as she mused, her tear-misted eyes upon the flowers, it came to her that she had no right to cheat Bob of an evening of bridge, of which he was inordinately fond, and that Cherry might resent having her generosity thrown back upon herself. In her present mood, Cherry would get a sort of morbid pleasure out of staving off the evening at home and playing the devoted mother. And repentance in solitude was undeniably good for her.

At eleven o'clock the telephone rang, and Rhoda answered it. A few minutes later she appeared at the door of the sun parlor, where Faith was playing with Hope, her China-blue eyes shining with joy.

"Nils wants to know if I can have the evening out with him. I told him you might want me to take care of the baby, because you and Mr. Hathaway are going to a bridge party."

"Of course you may go, Rhoda," Faith told her. "Tell him that Cherry is going to take care of the baby this evening herself. Be sure and tell him that, Rhoda."

The two girls smiled at each other, a slow, deep smile of understanding, and then Rhoda sped to the telephone.

NEXT: A happy evening for Bob and Faith, but not for Cherry. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

DON CARLOS HAS UNUSUAL STEPS, BACK PORCH, THREE FIREPLACES

INTRIGUINGLY STYLISH is the name of the "Don Carlo"—with its gleaming stucco surface, its vine-mottled roof, its arched vestibule, and terrace with long yucca giving out on the dining room. It gives a vision of blue sky, brilliant sunshine and a life full of the joy of living.

There's back porch—for the family that has the good taste to choose the "Don Carlo" is the sort that appreciates outdoors and good sunshine. Three fireplaces make for coziness inside, and the downstairs bedroom is lucky enough to draw one of them.

Especially well adapted to a spring of land is the "Don Carlo," for it snugly fits down on a slope with the proprietary air of having grown there. Four brick steps set-a-corner across the terrace add a touch of variety to the welcome in anything so personal as one's home. The price of the "Don Carlo" is from $7900 to $8000.

For further information about the "Don Carlo" write the Standard Homes Company, Colorado Building, Washington, D. C.

NEW NOVELTIES INSPIRED BY THE GAMBLING FAD

Paris—(P)—Small gambling as an indoor sport has inspired a new fashion of cigarette cases, lighters and other personal paraphernalia decorated with gambling scenes. A fashionable "smoke" shop in the Rue de la Paix says the new cases to be decorated with gambling scenes worked out in chain and jewels.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the tiny pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain off part of the wastes and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, head aches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of swelling, be tempted by a sensation of swelling, be tempted to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving the bladder disorders.

Jad Salt is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lemon-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood purer, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

NEARBY
TOWNSNAME COMMITTEES
FOR WINTER FAIRAdvancement Association to Devote Meeting to Discussion of Exhibition

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Advancement Association will hold a meeting on Wednesday evening, preceded by a 6:30 dinner. M. P. Hagman, chairman of the mid-winter fair in February, will announce his committee appointments and the remainder of the meeting will be devoted to a general discussion of the fair.

It is hoped that the owner of the north side hotel will attend the meeting and explain what is to be done with the building. Recently C. J. Harman wrote a letter to President Ben Prugh telling him that he would like to come to Kaukauna and discuss the hotel question with the local citizens. J. O. Posson, John Niesen and M. A. INTERESTING COMEDY
GIVEN IN HIGH SCHOOL

Kaukauna—"The Absentminded Bridegroom," a comedy, in three acts, was presented at the Kaukauna High school auditorium on Sunday evening under the auspices of St. Mary Catholic church congregation.

The play centered around Tim Shea's impending marriage to the Widow Rooney. On the eve of the wedding Tim gets cold feet and begs his crony, Pat Rooney, the widow's brother-in-law, to rescue him from the forthcoming marriage. Pat gets the bright idea of having the bridegroom pretend to lose his memory and assume the identity of one "Peter Peterson." Unfortunately the name belongs to a Swedish dynamiter wanted by the police. This starts the action, which waxes fast and furious when a pseudo Mrs. Peterson and three little Petersons burst in upon the scene, claiming Tim to be the head of their family. The final solution of the comedy is an explanation of Tim's actions.

Members of the cast were: Timothy Shea, the bridegroom, Martin J. Patrick Rooney, the friend, Hugo Muller, Jimmie Rooney, Daphne's son, John Vanden Berg; Fred Grady, his friend, Harry Janz; Slade, a plain clothes man, Henry Williams; Yonnie, a small colored boy, Paul Oudenhoven; Daphne Rooney, the bride, Mrs. H. Oudenhoven; Nora Shea, Tim's daughter, Mrs. Pat Garvey; Kathleen O'Connor, her friend, Anna Geurden; Tessie Connor, Mrs. Rooney's maid, Mrs. A. Ambrosius; Jennie, Virginia Goffard and small girl, Patricia Oudenhoven.

PREDICT REORGANIZATION OF STATE COLLEGES FOR SPORTS

Milwaukee Scribe Sees Little Four Conference To Replace Little Five

Lawrence, Carroll, Ripon, Beloit in New Loop of Higher Standards

If Oliver Kuehse, college sports scribe of a Milwaukee newspaper, has things doped out correctly, the old Little Five conference of the state colleges will be reorganized in a short while into the Little Four of Lawrence, Carroll, Beloit and Ripon. No official announcement of this has been made as yet but it has been learned from a reliable source that such is the case, Kuehse said in an article in his paper on Sunday. If the conference is reorganized for the four colleges its eligibility standards, the breaking point in the past will be much higher than has even been the case the story says.

It is understood that all plans for the reorganization have been made and that official announcement of the new conference awaits just the adoption of the constitution now being prepared by a committee.

The Little Four will have an entirely revised eligibility code. It will enforce, among other things, the one-year freshman rule and a strict migratory rule governing transient athletes.

It also will have a commissioner of athletics with duties similar to those of Ed. John Griffith of the Western conference. The commissioner, a Waukegan man, has been appointed already, it is understood, but his name is being withheld until after the adoption of the constitution.

In reorganizing, the four schools aimed to eliminate all the weaknesses of the old Little Five which led up, first to the withdrawal of Beloit two years ago and then of Ripon and Lawrence two months ago.

The six-months freshman rule of the old Little Five was long a bone of contention. Beloit, Ripon and Lawrence, as members of the Mid-west conference in addition to the Little Five, had the one-year rule, while Carroll, not in the Mid-west, enforced only the six-months rule. It presented a peculiar situation.

To put the new conference on as high a plane as possible, the four schools have also agreed to establish an iron clad migratory rule providing that an athlete coming from another school is ineligible for varsity competition until after one year's residence, the year also to count as one of competition.

HIGH CLASSROOM MARKS. In classroom work, the conference has adopted, it is understood, a rule requiring all athletes to have a passing mark of at least 70 and a mark of 77 in 60 per cent of their work.

As a result of the reorganization, Northwestern college of Watertown finds itself out in the cold so to speak. Northwestern was a member of both the original Little Five and the succeeding Wisconsin-Illinois conference which was organized two years ago at the time of Beloit's withdrawal. Lake Forest replaced Beloit.

It is understood, however, that the four schools in the Little Four will retain relations with both Northwestern college and Lake Forest and will continue to play them each season. Northwestern, in the old conference, was more or less of a weak sister.

ZWICK, TAYLOR TO MEET IN MILWAUKEE

Tom Andrews Signs Pair for Battle on January 24

Phil Zwick, Kaukauna's featherweight boxer, will get his fourth chance in a Milwaukee ring on Jan. 24 and his opponent again will be one of the classic men in the division, according to reports from Milwaukee. Phil will battle Bud Taylor, former world's champion, and classed not far below Joey Sangster, who beat Zwick decisively last week in Milwaukee. In fact, Sangster and Taylor have broken even in bouts, though Joey has taken the last two by decision. Although Zwick has not formally accepted the match, Tom Andrews has the verbal promise of his handlers and he regards the match as good as made.

Taylor Saturday accepted the Cream City A. C. proposition which calls for ten rounds at 121 pounds. Bud will work on a stiff guarantee with a privilege of percentage which he will undoubtedly use as the show promises to draw a record mob.

HAS BETTER CHANCE

Zwick's chances against Taylor are considerably better than they were against Joey Sangster. But as Sangster has fought and fought on a standard position, Zwick's success has been against the fighters who will start up and box with him.

JACK LOCKWILL'S FIGHTING BLOOD

Lockwill was puzzled by the invitation. He didn't know the handwriting, and the signature gave him no clue to the identity of the girl who had penned the note. Giving it up at last, he tossed the missive on the table and took up the study of next day's lessons. In pajamas, before retiring, he exercised his arm. "This wing seems almost all right again," he said.

Jack awoke in the night with a strong feeling that something was happening. The shaded lamp was lighted, and Sinnott, standing by the table, was reading the invitation.

"I told you to look out for that cuckoo," said Darling, after hearing about it. "Are you going to the barn dance tonight, Jack?" "My natural curiosity won't let me stay away," was the answer. "I want to find out who The Witch is." A customer supplied Lockwill with the rig of an Indian chief, including a feather war-bonnet and a rubber tomahawk and knife. (To Be Continued)

ARREST HERN YORK AS ACCOMPLICE IN MARSHALL BURGLARY

Local Man Taken into Custody After Admission of New Crime by Stilt

Hern York, 23, was taken into custody by local police Monday morning, charged with being implicated in the robbery of the Dr. V. E. Marshall residence, 504 E. North-st., Sept. 10, 1927. His arrest followed a confession by Thomas Stilt, 16-year-old Appleton boy, that he had burglarized the house and that York had helped him dispose of the loot. Stilt was arrested last week on a charge of robbing the Schlitz downtown drug store.

Stilt told police here that it was with York's aid that he disposed of a ladies wrist watch secured in the Marshall burglary. A warrant charging York with being an accessory to a burglary has been issued by John A. Londorf, district attorney and York was to be arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon.

The wrist watch was valued at $250 and York is said to have sold the time piece to a Green Bay furniture dealer for $25. York told the Green Bay man that the watch belonged to his sister and that if she wanted to redeem it later she was to have the privilege of doing so upon payment of the $25 and interest. The watch was recovered by Chief Prim at Green Bay last week after Stilt's confession.

Officers Fred Arndt, Carl Radtke, Walter Hendricks and Lester Van Roy arrested York on the corner of Madison and 213 N. Morrison-st. He told police he was home for a visit from Chicago and had been attending Chicago university.

$1,600 INVOLVED IN SUITS FOR DAMAGES

Two Autoists Blame Each Other for Collision of Cars Last May

A suit for damages totaling $1,600 in which Edwin Hoffman, proprietor of the Purity bakery, 423 W. College-ave, and Dr. J. S. Reeve are involved, opened before Judge Theodore Berg in the upper branch of municipal court Monday afternoon. The suit grew out of an automobile accident in which cars owned by the Appleton man and Hoffman were driving south on N. Catherine-st and their cars collided at the intersection.

Selection of a jury was started Monday morning but the panel was exhausted before 12 men had been chosen. An adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon when more jurors were to be summoned for duty.

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR TRAINING CLASSES

Final arrangements for the training school for Sunday school workers of Appleton to be started here early in February will be made at a meeting of the Sunday school workers with the Rev. C. J. Lotz of Fond du Lac at 7 o'clock Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Besides the workers, pastors and Sunday school superintendents of the cooperating churches have been invited to the meeting. Mr. Lotz is representing the Wisconsin State Sunday School association, which sponsors the training course here. A program for the school will be set up and curriculum will be discussed and teachers for the classes will be chosen Monday evening.

At 7:30 the first regular meeting of the newly-organized Appleton Church School Superintendents club will be held. The club will be fully organized and its officers will be elected after a report of the nominating committee. After the election Mr. Lotz will take charge of the program and will explain the training course more fully.

STILL TAKING ENTRIES FOR POULTRY EXHIBIT

Entries for the annual Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association show which will be held in Armory G. Jan. 11 to 13 were being received Monday morning by officers of the association. Indications are that there will be a large display of poultry, rabbits and pigeons this year than for several years previous. Entries closed Sunday but will be accepted until the opening day, according to John Good-son, secretary and treasurer.

Prizes offered by the association are open to world competition according to officers, with the best specimens making the awards. The latest edition of the American Poultry association show rules and the American standard of perfection will govern the show.

How Was 1927 Business?

Receipts at Appleton post office for 1927 were $14,699.90 more than 1926, according to the official statement of Fred Felix Wetengel, acting postmaster. The increase shown during the past year nearly 100 per cent more than the increase in 1925 over 1924. The increase for that period was $5,000.

Sale of postal stamp paper netted the department $159,390.08 or an increase of nearly $10,000 over the previous year's sales the statement shows. The excess from the statement shows per was $5.39, approximately the same as last year's amount. Postage collected in money from publishers was $4,435.67, about $200 more than 1926, while the only other increase was in postage collected on permit matter totaling $7,518.42, or not quite $4,000 more than the year before. Box rents paid in by the quarter year netted $1,576.25 nad, with the money received for sale of waste paper and from miscellaneous receipts, makes a total of $173,211.13. Total receipts for 1926 were $158,511.23.

In speaking of the increase, Mr. Wetengel said it was the general prosperity of business in Appleton which accounted for the increased postal business. The fact that several new publications printed locally are mailed through this office also has added to the receipts.

Whether 1928 will show the same increase is a problem, according to the acting postmaster. The removal of the treasurer's office of Catholic order of Foresters will make some difference for the coming year, he said though unforeseen happenings may offset this loss.

COMMISSION STUDIES FOREIGN TYPE PHONES

Appleton People Interested in Testimony at Hearing This Week

A hearing on the installation and removal of hand set telephones, similar to the Continental or French type telephone, was held in Madison Monday afternoon and another hearing will be held in Milwaukee Tuesday. The hearings are to determine whether the Wisconsin Telephone company can remove these hand set telephones if patrons of the company buy them and have them installed.

Several weeks ago the telephone company agreed to install hand set telephones when requested and ask an additional fee of 50 cents a month. When the matter was put before the Railroad Commission that body refused to sanction the increase claiming that another telephone company has installed the phones at no additional charge, and that no increase would be legal until a public hearing has been held on the matter. Following the commission's decision the telephone company forced removal of the hand set telephones regardless of whether they had been purchased by the user.

Several residents of Appleton were among those persons from whose homes the phones have been removed and at least one local patron has requested that the commission sanction the new phones regardless of the increased fee. Local patrons of the company while objecting to removal of the telephones agreed that if the commission refused to sanction installation at this time, the Wisconsin Telephone company was right in removing the phones and have therefore addressed complaints to the commission.

Kratz' companion, another university student, was seriously injured but doctors expect his recovery.

PREPARE LIST OF PRIZES FOR FAIR

Meeting Attends Meeting of Committee to Prepare for 1928 State Exhibition

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, will go to Madison Wednesday afternoon to attend a meeting of a committee which is to prepare a list of premiums for school exhibits at the state fair next fall. State Superintendent John Callahan is chairman of the committee and two men appointed by Mr. Meating and representatives of the state agricultural department compose the group. Mr. Meating has appointed Avery Jones of Winnechago and George Kelly of Green-co to serve on the committee.

The policy of fair officials with contestants in state spelling and arithmetic contests will be discussed. Mr. Meating objected in an address before the annual rural teacher's convention at Milwaukee several months ago, to the present procedure. He denounced the plan of rushing the contestants through a round of pleasure and "filling them with peanuts, candy and pink lemonade." He said by the time the children are ready to take part in the contest they are worn out and of pleasure. It is possible the committee will make some recommendation for changing the procedure.

BEGIN ORGANIZATION OF ANOTHER BOYS' CLUB

The programs will be conducted by boys from each department club, chosen last week by the department council, and members of the new Sunday afternoon club.

Sunday the boys suggested the entertainment they would like for the socials for the coming year. The suggestions included motion pictures, phonograph, vocal and instrumental music, tricks and novelties, skits and jokes, speakers and entertainment by Robert Neller and his doll, Isadore. FIRM PRICE TREND IN EARLY TRADING

Uneven Movement Develops With Bulls Hobbing Slight Advantage

New York.—(AP)—Price were steady at the opening of the stock market Monday with an underdog of firm, but Radio Corporation opened with a sale of a block of 500 shares, up fractionally. Moderate buying of some of the motor was in evidence at the close. Canadian steel opened at the same level as the previous day and American can were about a point lower.

Large offerings of U. S. Steel, General Motors and General Electric reached the market a few minutes after the start, causing the body of the list to ease off.

Little in the over-night selling indicated a reason for early selling. An important development was the offering of a new issue of treasury certificates. Development was the offering of a new issue of treasury certificates which will bear interest at 3 1/2 per cent. Among the early heavy stocks were Midland Steel Products, preferred which quickly lost 6 points, and Baltimore and Ohio. Louis Southern, Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide and Chrysler. BEHR OUTSCORES OHIO STATE FIVE

Badger Captain Scores 14 Points to 13 for Rival Team

Chicago—(P)—Two western conference basketball stars outscored the entire opposing team in the inaugural game of the 1928 Big Ten season Saturday night. McCracken, Indiana center, nearly doubled the Chicago score, sinking eleven shots from the floor and two from the foul line for 24 points, toward the Indiana victory 32-13, over the Maroons. Behr of Wisconsin outscored Ohio State with six field goals and two free throws, for fourteen points, Wisconsin winning 31 to 15.

Northwestern and Minnesota shared honors opening night by trouncing last year's leaders. Northwestern's rejuvenated squad under a new coach, "Dutch" Lomborg, downed Michigan 25 to 20, holding the famous Oosterbaan-Harrigan combination in check. Minnesota fought desperately for its 33-23 victory over Iowa, coming from behind in the last few minutes. Iowa, missing a free throw with only ten seconds to play, lost its chance for a tie.

Purdue's long shot game, which was unable to break up, fed the ball to "Stretch" Murphy, who towers six feet, seven inches in the air. His accurate shooting, combined with the steady parade to the foul line resulting from Illinois' rough play, brought Purdue a 30-24 victory.

Northwestern, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Purdue began their season with victories, giving all five a tie for first place, for one day. Leading basketball scores in the Big Ten are:

Chicago—(P)—Johnny Meyers, middleweight wrestling champion, will defend his crown Monday night for the first time this winter against Jimmy Demetral of Madison, Wis., winner of an elimination tournament sponsored by the 202nd Coast Artillery regiment at the Broadway Armory.

It will be their fifth meeting in as many years, the last engagement winding up in a fight at Madison when Demetral knocked out Meyers in boxing fashion but lost the wrestling decision on a foul. Meyers finally agreed to continue and pinned Demetral again.

Meyers was forced to shed about 12 pounds to reach the 160 pound limit.

PURPLE FIVE WHIPS MICHIGAN CHAMPIONS

Evanston—(P)—In the fastest game Northwestern has played this season, the Purple five swept over Michigan, Big Ten champions, 25 to 20 in their inaugural conference game at Faltin gym, Saturday night. Going through the entire game without a substitution, the Northwestern five established themselves as a force to be reckoned with during the 1928 conference race by decisively trouncing the 1927 champions after trailing them 12 to 10 at the half.

During the second period, the Northwestern five started working like an oil machine and rarely let Michigan even get a try at their goal. The champions resorted to several substitutions but were unable to find a combination that could stop the purple.

CHANGE BLANKS FOR PAYING INCOME TAX

New Method Will Tell Amount on Which Tax Must Be Paid and Not Salary

Madison—(P)—The state tax commission this week mailed 17,500 corporation income tax blanks to Wisconsin corporations. The tax blanks for individual incomes are to be mailed by the 30 assessors of income taxes throughout the state, the commission says and it expects that the 200,000 such blanks will be sent out before Jan. 15. Returns on incomes are due within 75 days after the close of the period covered by the return, which makes the last date on which they may be made Mar. 15.

The commission points out that the principal income tax roll has been deferred to June 1, and there will be no collections on that roll until June. The only collections of income taxes to be made in January and February of 1928 will be on certain fiscal year returns, and on back taxes.

Changes in the blanks for individual income returns have been necessitated by the law passed by the last session of the legislature. A radical change is that instead of basing the annual assessment upon the net income of the previous year, it will be based upon the average net income of the three preceding years. This has the effect of spreading a loss over a three-year period, instead of confining the deduction to the year in which the loss was incurred.

Another important change is in the nature of personal exemptions, which is now expressed in terms of dollars of tax instead of dollars of income. Formerly a single person was allowed a deduction of $800 from his net income, and a married man or the head of a family was allowed $1600 deduction from net income, and a further exemption of $300 for each child under 18 years of age, or other dependent.

Under the new law, the tax is computed on the net income before the exemption is deducted, and a single person is allowed a deduction of $800. This, the commission says, has the effect of increasing the difference between tax on small and large incomes.

As an illustration, a married man with a net income of $2,000 formerly paid a tax of $4; under the new law he will pay $5. A married man with a net income of $4,000 paid a tax of $25.50; under the new law, he will pay $37.50.

The new law provides that the 1928 tax will be based upon the average net income of 1926 and 1927. The 1929 tax will be computed upon the net income of 1926, 1927, and 1928.

GRADUATE OF LAWRENCE IN CHICAGO PLAY

Lucille Meusel, Green Bay, graduate of Lawrence Conservatory of music, took the part of Gretel in Engelbert Humperdinck's fairy opera "Hansel and Gretel" presented by the Chicago Civic Opera company in English Wednesday afternoon at Chicago. Miss Meusel was without doubt the individual star of the performance, according to a Chicago musical critic.

The auditorium was filled with children. The opera is especially pleasing to youngsters, for it is presented in English and has a happy ending. Miss Meusel showed exceptional dramatic ability and grace which has been compared with the work of Mary Garden.

Supporting Miss Meusel and Irene Pavloska, who played the part of Hansel, were Maria Claessens as the witch, Augusta Lenska as the mother, Desire Deffere as the father, Lorna Doone Jackson as the sandman, and Anna Hamlin as the dwarfman. Henry Weber conducted the opera, and Charles Moore was stage manager.
